

PUBLIC LECTURE

BARBADOS

Fisheries and the Environment: Fisheries management legislation and principles of international law

Thursday, 25 April 2013
Accra Beach Hotel
6.00-8.00 pm

Presenter:

ANCORS Professor Warwick Gullett
Dean of Law, University of Wollongong, Australia

Teaching expertise: Law of Torts, Law of the Sea and Marine Resources Law

Professor Warwick Gullett is a graduate of Monash University (LLB, 1995, BA (Hons), 1997) and the Australian National University (PhD, 2002). He joined the University of Wollongong in 2004 after spending three years as a Lecturer at the Australian Maritime College in Tasmania. He was appointed Dean of the Australian National Centre for Ocean Resources and Security (ANCORS) on 1 November 2012.

Primary research interests:

International law of the sea
environmental law and marine policy.

Current research projects: offshore law enforcement and indigenous rights in intertidal areas.

Literary contributions:

- ❖ Author of the book, Fisheries Law in Australia (2008)
- ❖ Editor, with Clive Schofield and Joanna Vince, of the multidisciplinary book, Marine Resources Management (2011)
- ❖ Editor of The Australian Journal of Maritime and Ocean Affairs (2008-2010).
- ❖ Member of the Editorial Committee of The Australasian Journal of Natural Resources Law and Policy
- ❖ Fisheries Editor for The Environmental and Planning Law Journal

Organized by the Caribbean Regional Fisheries Mechanism in collaboration with Australian National Centre for Ocean Resources and Security (ANCORS), the Barbados Fisheries Division and the University of the West Indies

Protect, conserve and manage fisheries and marine biodiversity!